Using the Alarm.com Website

Welcome

Thank you for choosing Alarm.com. “Using the Alarm.com Website” is a screen-by-screen guide that shows how to use the Alarm.com customer website. A sample Alarm.com customer account is used to illustrate the interactive and user-friendly features available on the Alarm.com website. See how to check current system status, arm or disarm through the web, and more!

For your convenience, we have included a Table of Contents in this guide. The Table of Contents indicates where in the guide each of the Tabs and corresponding Subtabs of the Alarm.com website are described.

A number of the features we describe in this guide are optional to your Alarm.com system. If you see a feature that interests you but don't have in your Alarm.com system, please contact your Dealer for more information.

Please also note that there is online help on each page in the Alarm.com website that will provide you with further assistance. Thank you for using Alarm.com!

Important Note: If you currently subscribe to Alarm.com's Wireless Signal Forwarding Service Plan, you will not have the features described in this guide other than the forwarding of alarm signals to your Central Station. If you have questions on this or would like to subscribe to any of the features described in this guide, please contact your Alarm.com Dealer.

Home: Logging In

Customer Log in: Login to access your Alarm.com system from anywhere with an Internet connection by going to www.alarm.com. Your Dealer may also have a customized login page you can use.

Forgot Login and Password: Alarm.com can send your login name and password to your e-mail address if you can't remember it.

Security: System Status

Website Layout: The Alarm.com website consists of 'Tabs', such as the Security and People tabs. The current Tab you're on is highlighted in dark blue. For each tab, there are one or more 'Subtabs', which are listed in the dark blue bar underneath the Tabs. The currently viewed Subtab is in bold and surrounded by brackets [ ].

Check Current System Status: The Status Panel tells you the current arming status of your system, indicates if any sensors are open*, and indicates if your system has reported any alarms or issues.

Your system can be in 1 of 3 arming states – Disarmed, Armed Stay, and Armed Away. Use the drop-down menu to change the arming state. Clicking the 'set' button will send your chosen command to your control panel.

*Sensor Activity is only displayed if you have subscribed to Alarm.com's Advanced Interactive package. Contact your Alarm.com Dealer for details.

Security: Remote Arming

Arming and Disarming: When your system is armed, the screen looks like this. To disarm your system, use the drop down menu, choose Disarm, and then click on the 'set' button. A popup window will appear indicating that a disarm command is being sent to your system. After about a minute the popup window will disappear and the System Summary web page will automatically refresh to the new state. To arm the system, follow the above procedure, but choose Arm Stay or Arm Away instead of Disarm.

Note: You can not go from an Armed Away state to an Armed Stay state or vice versa. First you must Disarm, then go to the desired state.

Security: Sensors

System Sensor List: The 'Sensors' Subtab shows each of your system components. You can use the textboxes to create specific, customized descriptions for each sensor. Click 'save changes' when you're done.

Important! Changing sensor names here will not change the names on your system keypads, so we recommend using this feature to add descriptive details to sensors, such as associating Key FOBs with the people who will use them. These descriptions will be shown throughout the website and in your sensor notifications.

Use this screen to name your sensors and view their current status.

People: Address Book

Address Book Overview: The 'Address Book' Subtab in the People Tab shows all of the users in your Alarm.com Address Book. Click the 'add a person' button for additional individuals. To delete users, their contact information, and their user codes from the system, click on the 'X' corresponding to the user name.

Note: If you are using Alarm.com to manage users, always program user codes through the Alarm.com website and not through the panel itself to ensure user code synchronization between the website and the security panel. The Alarm.com website will automatically program your panel with the new or changed user codes, but changes made on the panel will not be received by Alarm.com.

Add a Person: After clicking the 'add a person' button on the Address Book Subtab, you can add a person by entering their first and last name. You can then add phone number* and e-mail addresses for that person by clicking on the corresponding links. To add a mobile phone text message address, click on the link 'Learn how to get e-mails on your mobile phone.' Click on save changes when you're done. Once you've added a person, you can then click on the User Codes Subtab to assign a user code.

*You will only be able to enter phone numbers into the website if you have subscribed to one of Alarm.com's optional automated voice notification features. Contact your Alarm.com Dealer for more details.

User Codes: You may use the User Codes Subtab to assign a 4-digit code to people in your Address Book and set up types of access. Their user ID is reported to Alarm.com and viewable on the website whenever the system is armed or disarmed. With this, you can see who is arming and disarming your system and when they are doing so through the History tab. Checking/unchecking the Panel Access box adds/removes the user code from the panel. The optional voice access feature lets you enter your user code into your phone to cancel alarms when you receive an Alarm.com automated voice notification*.

Note: You may only modify user codes when the system is in a Disarmed state.

Alarms: If your system issues an alarm, Alarm.com can send people from your Alarm.com Address Book an e-mail or mobile phone text message with alarm details. This notification is in addition to and separate from any alarm reporting to your Security Dealer's Central Station Monitoring Center (contact your Alarm.com Dealer for more details). To choose which users would be sent messages in the event of alarms, check the box next to their contact address(es). To choose the devices from which you would like to receive Alarm.com e-mail notifications, check the box next to device names on the Alarms web page. If you have the optional Voice Notifications for Alarms feature from Alarm.com, Alarm.com can also call designated phone numbers up to 3 times each and provide an automated voice message indicating the alarm event. Also, if the contact has the optional Voice Access feature enabled*, the contact may cancel the alarm by sending a disarm command through the phone.**

*See page 8 - People: User Codes

**Canceling the alarm may not stop emergency dispatch from your Central Station. If the cancellation is made quickly, the Central Station will likely receive it but you should always call the Central Station after a False Alarm to make sure that the alarm has been cancelled.

Notifications: Central Station

The screenshot shows the Alarm.com user interface. At the top right, it says "You are logged in as Bob to the Smith Home." Below this is the Alarm.com logo and the tagline "THE WAY SECURITY SHOULD BE™". Navigation links include "help | faq | contact us | logout". A menu bar contains "Security", "History", "Automation", "Notifications" (highlighted), "People", and "Profile". Below the menu, there are tabs for "Non-Alarms", "Alarms", and "[ Central Station ]".

Your Alarm.com system is currently set up with central station monitoring. In the event of an alarm situation, Alarm.com will be able to forward alarms to your central station. The central station will then try to verify the alarm, and may notify fire, police, or emergency medical help. Because Alarm.com is wireless, alarms will be forwarded to your central station even if the phone line is cut or damaged.

If your system issues an alarm, Alarm.com will follow the Alarm Notification sequence on the Alarm Notification screen to contact members of your Address Book via e-mail. At the same time, a live operator from your central station will be trying to contact you to verify the alarm.

For your reference, your central station account information is shown below:

Account Number:	9999
Alarm Company:	Your Alarm Company
Alarm Company Contact:	John Doe
Phone Number:	555-555-5555
E-mail:	JohnDoe@AlarmCompany.com
Is Phonenumber Failure Required:	Yes

At the bottom of the page, there are links for "Home | Contact Us | Privacy Policy | Terms & Conditions" and a copyright notice "Copyright 2005, Alarm.com".

Central Station: The Central Station page indicates whether or not you have Central Station Monitoring and what your Central Station account information is. Please contact your Alarm.com Dealer for more information on your Central Station configuration.

If you have Central Station Monitoring, then your security dealer has set up your account to report arms to a Central Station. When there is an alarm, your alarm signal will be sent to the Central Station and the Central Station will follow its response procedures. These procedures vary by security provider.
